Babies at center of new local company

A BridgeMill mom has launched a new company of designer products for babies.

Butt-ums up baby offers handmade clutch-style diaper changing pads and matching blankets. Stacy Sager created the pad with a Velcro strap that opens with one hand.

The matching blankets are made in the same soft chenille fabric with silky satin trim, with or without ruffles, and backing.

The pads retail for $40 and the blankets range from $18 to $108.
